The 2007 State of the Art Conference will emphasize advanced topics vital to furthering the clinical practice of addiction medicine. Keynote speeches by both Timothy Condon, PhD, Deputy Director of NIDA, and H. Westley Clark, MD, JD, MPH, Director of CSAT, will provide a national perspective emphasizing innovations in addiction research, intervention, and treatment.

Pre-conference workshops on Wednesday are designed to be in-depth and offer an opportunity for interaction with renowned faculty. Topics include Hepatitis C for the Addiction Specialist, Maximizing Reimbursement for Services, Pharmacologic Induction of the Spiritual Experience, Globalization of Addiction, Developmental Skills Training, Mindfulness Practices, and Pain and Addiction.

On Thursday, plenary sessions will explore the process for medication development and post-marketing surveillance and reflect on the ways that pharmaceutical company interests may influence patient care. The levels of evidence needed to adopt pharmacotherapies will be contrasted with those needed for behavioral therapies. Investigating research parameters which describe addictive behavior and assess treatment outcome will lead to a discussion of the meaning of recovery and the extent to which experimental findings can be generalized to clinical practice.

Friday morning's presentations on pain and addiction range from investigating opiate responsive neurocircuits to novel approaches for medications development. The impact of disordered sleep on pain and addiction, and a model program for the non-opioid management of chronic pain in addicted patients will be described.

The line-up for Friday afternoon's session on steroids is extraordinary. Authors Lance Williams and Mark Fainaru-Wada will discuss the role of anabolic steroids in sports followed by Don Caitlin, MD's accounts of drug testing for the Olympics. Ruth Wood, PhD, will discuss mechanisms for the psychoactive effects of steroids, while Harrison G. Pope, Jr., MD, will discuss the clinical ramifications of these findings.

On Saturday, we will address the needs of special populations including Hispanics, adolescents, the lesbian and gay communities, and one model of prevention for families. In addition, throughout the conference, exercises in mindfulness are designed to enhance learning and participation.

Exciting breakfast and evening events are also planned. A breakfast discussion with ASAM President Michael Miller, MD and Treasurer Stuart Gitlow, MD on Friday morning will highlight ASAM's plan to achieve conjoint specialty status and discuss the potential for parity and other policy initiatives. On Wednesday evening, "The Comic Shrink," Dr. Howard Richmond, will pack in laughs. During Thursday night's dessert reception, Judge James Gray will discuss his experiences enforcing drug statutes and give a provocative perspective entitled, "Why Our Drug Laws Have Failed." Finally, on Friday night Mark Fainaru-Wada and Lance Williams, will discuss the investigative reporting and aftermath of Game of Shadows: Barry Bonds, BALCO, and the Steroids Scandal that Rocked Professional Sports at a dinner and book signing.

Need we say more? Whether you want to advance your understanding of addiction medicine, improve your clinical practice, or relax and network with incredible peers, CSAM's 2007 State of the Art Conference is not to be missed!

WEDNESDAY PRE-CONFERENCE

Morning Workshops: 9:00 am - 12 noon

A USING DEVELOPMENTAL SKILLS TRAINING IN ADDICTION TREATMENT

This workshop presents an introduction to Developmental Skills Training (DST), a brain-based intervention program designed to promote the mastery of two fundamental developmental skills: self-nurturing and effective limit-setting. Drawing upon cutting edge neurobiology, the method involves monitoring one's state of homeostasis / allostasis on a five-point scale, then using the corresponding tool to produce immediate changes in stress and reward. Used over time, the method appears to retrain the limbic system to increase resilience, to decrease cravings and to enhance developmental rewards. This workshop will briefly review the neuroscience of the method and then focus on experiencing the skills in all five states. DST and 12-step methods will be compared and contrasted. This workshop applies toward credit for certification in the method through distance learning or on-site programs.

Laurel Mellin, MA, RD, Associate Clinical Professor of Family and Community Medicine and Pediatrics, School of Medicine, UCSF

David Ingebritsen, PhD, LCPC, Manager, Counseling Services Department, Benewah Medical Center and Coeur d'Alene Tribal Wellness Center, Plummer, ID

B PHARMACOLOGICAL INDUCTION OF THE SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCE

Throughout history drugs have been used in religious rituals by widely different cultures. Recent controlled studies with psilocybin and discoveries of the endocannabinoid neural system begin to shed new light on the relationship between pharmacology and spirituality. This workshop explores questions of how the world of subjective experiences arising from spiritual practice can be studied in the laboratory setting, with implications for the field of addiction medicine.

Timmen Cermak, MD, Private Practice of Psychiatry and Addiction Psychiatry in San Francisco and Marin Counties

Robert Jesse, President, Council on Spiritual Practices, San Francisco

C HEPATITIS C UNIVERSITY: MUST-KNOWS FOR THE ADDICTION SPECIALIST

Addiction specialists face daily challenges related to hepatitis C, including transmission education, diagnosis, and treatment issues. What do we need to help our patients receive the services they need? This interactive workshop acknowledges the key role of addiction specialists in helping patients negotiate the many barriers to HCV intervention.

Anthony Albanese, MD, Director, Chemical Dependency Division and Director, Hepatitis C Program at the VA Medical Center, Mather, CA and Associate Clinical Professor of Medicine, University of California, Davis

Diana Sylvestre, MD, Executive Director of the O.A.S.I.S. Clinic, Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine, UCSF

Dennis Bleakley, MD, Associate Medical Director, JWCH Clinic at the Weingart Center, Los Angeles

WEDNESDAY PRE-CONFERENCE

Afternoon Workshops: 1:30 pm - 4:30 pm

D ACCESS TO TREATMENT: OBTAINING INSURANCE BENEFIT AUTHORIZATION FOR OUR PATIENTS

Significant strides toward successful insurance benefit authorization occurred with the development of the ASAM Patient Placement Criteria. Most healthcare-insured patients have managed care benefits that require strict "medical necessity" guidelines be satisfied in order for treatment to be covered. Understanding ASAM PPC-2R, coding strategies, and managed care's "gate keeper" function and the "rules of engagement" are essential knowledge for addiction treatment professionals. This workshop provides an inside look at ASAM's development of level of care medical necessity guidelines, appropriate billing codes, the workings of managed care and the tools for securing insurance authorization for treatment. Case studies will be presented and participants are encouraged to bring up cases for discussion. Additionally, larger access to treatment issues will be discussed, including substance use disorder (SUD) parity and insurance SUD benefit design.

Thomas J. Brady, MD, MBA, Vice-President & Chief Medical Officer, CRC Health Group, Cupertino, CA

John P. Femino, MD, Medical Director, Meadows Edge Recovery Center, North Kingstown, RI

David Mee-Lee, MD, Training and Consultation in the Treatment of Addiction and Co-Occurring Disorders, Davis, CA

E GLOBALIZATION OF ADDICTION

Drug abuse trends have gone global. "Cocaine, Inc.", is as well capitalized as many Fortune 500 companies. Southeast Asia is experiencing newly intertwined injection heroin and HIV epidemics. Methamphetamine use is rapidly increasing in many parts of the world because of relatively low cost and local pharmaceutical manufacture. Twelve-step programs are in early stages of development in many parts of the world, and more formal public health interventions are being rapidly developed by governments. This workshop will review addiction patterns and treatment responses in Thailand, Vietnam, China, Britain, the Middle East, and South Africa.

Peter Banys, MD, MSci, Director, Substance Abuse Programs VA Medical Center, Clinical Professor of Psychiatry, UCSF

Walter Ling, MD, Professor-in-Residence of Psychiatry and Director, Integrated Substance Abuse Programs (ISAP), UCLA

Richard Rawson, PhD, Associate Director, Professor-in-Residence, Integrated Substance Abuse Programs (ISAP), UCLA

David Smith, MD, Executive Medical Director, Prometa® Centers, San Francisco; and Bayside Marin Treatment Centers

F MINDFULNESS IN ADDICTION TREATMENT

There is a growing body of evidence supporting the use of mindfulness skills for a variety of psychological and medical conditions, including chronic pain, depression, and now addictive disorders. This presentation will provide an overview of the historical roots of mindfulness, the efficacy of this approach in reducing stress-related illness, and its most current application in providing tools for managing cravings and helping prevent relapse to substance use. This presentation will cover research, clinical applications, and experiential participation.

Alan Marlatt, PhD, Director, Addictive Behaviors Research Center University of Washington, Seattle, WA

Elizabeth Suti, MA, MFT, UCLA Neuropsychiatric Hospital

Full-Day Workshop: 9:00 am - 4:30 pm

G PAIN AND ADDICTION: ADDRESSING THE TOUGH CASES

This workshop will be a case-based approach to address the tough choices faced by clinicians in dealing with the complex interaction of pain and addiction, including how to treat persons for pain when they are actively using psychoactive substances or when preventing relapse is a paramount concern. A panel of experts will address each case from the perspectives of neurobiology, pharmacology, treatment planning and clinical follow-up.

Barry M. Rosen, MD, Director, The Sequoia Center, Redwood City, CA

Karen Miotto, MD, Associate Professor, Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Science, UCLA School of Medicine, Los Angeles

Mel Pohl, MD, Medical Director, Las Vegas Recovery Center, Las Vegas, NV

Jim Tracy, DDS, CADC, Las Vegas Recovery Center, Las Vegas, NV
